In the short term (next 2 to 3 years), insurers will find greater business impact with mobile investments that are targeted at agents/brokers and service supply partners. Not only will they satisfy partner technology demands but mobile use will reduce the transaction cost by more than 30% and reduce the handling time by 50%. Short-term mobile investments will produce ROI such as operational efficiency, faster transaction processing and cost savings. These benefits will have an indirect effect on customers such as driving improved customer satisfaction through faster claims processing and policy issuance — both of which have been proved to be major complaints of insurance consumers based on industry studies.

Responding to growing demands by agents is the first line of defense to preserving revenue by keeping them loyal and satisfied. Therefore, this is more than just ROI; it is loss prevention for insurers operating with agent/broker channels.
